MILWAUKEE COUNTY CCS DIRECTORY

General Information about Comprehensive Community Services (CCS)

What Is Recovery?

Recovery is a word used by some to describe the experience of living with a mental health condition and/or addiction. You may use a different word to describe your experience, but the main focus of recovery is finding what works best for you to help you move your life in a direction that you want.

What Is CCS?

CCS is a program offered by Milwaukee County. It serves both children and adults. If you choose to participate in CCS, you will have the opportunity to work with a care coordinator and develop a team of people who will support you in reaching your goals. CCS is a voluntary program. This means that you have a choice about whether or not you want to participate. If you choose to participate in CCS, and decide later that this is not the program for you, you can always request to end your enrollment. As long as you are still eligible, you can always re-enroll at any time.

IMPORTANT: If you are currently enrolled in a Community Support program (CSP) or Targeted Case Management program (TCM), you can participate in CCS, but you would need to end your enrollment in TCM or CSP in order to move into the CCS program. If you are in CSP or TCM and are interested in being in CCS, please talk to your case manager about helping you make a referral. Consumers living in a group home or a supportive apartment can remain in these placements and still receive CCS services. Individuals enrolled in Family Care can receive services from both CCS and Family Care at the same time.

If you have a child who is enrolled in WrapAround, children enrolled in WrapAround are not eligible for CCS.

Who Is Eligible for CCS?

Everyone who is interested in CCS has the opportunity to participate in a screening process that will determine whether or not you are eligible for CCS. There are a few things you NEED to have in order to participate:

1) Milwaukee County residency
2) Medicaid (T-19, Forward Health)
3) A mental health condition and/or substance abuse disorder (alcohol, illegal street drugs, etc.)
4) Functional eligibility- determined by the State of Wisconsin Mental Health/AODA Functional Screen (for adults) or the Children's Long Term Services (CLTS) screen (for children)

IMPORTANT: CCS requires a doctor's (medical or psychiatric) prescription to participate. A new prescription will need to be obtained yearly. If you need assistance obtaining a prescription, someone can assist you in getting one.

What Does CCS Offer?

CCS offers a wide variety of services that you are able to choose from. Please see the CCS service descriptions on pages (5-9) to help you understand more about what is available to you.

IMPORTANT: CCS is considered one big program. This means you can select as many services and agencies out of this directory that you feel will best fit your needs.

VERY IMPORTANT: If you have a therapist, who provides counseling, and you would like to continue working with them, you will need to make sure that they are part of the CCS network (see psychotherapy providers section for details). In order to participate in CCS, you need to see a CCS approved therapist, which may mean you need to switch therapists if you would like to be in CCS.

Also, individuals participating in a mental health day treatment program (i.e. Aurora or Rogers Partial Hospitalization programs) are not eligible to enroll in CCS until their participation in these programs has ended.

The CCS Enrollment Process

Yes! I'm interested in CCS.

Great! We need you to fill out an application.

Now, I need to ask some questions and enter your answers into the computer to see if you are eligible for CCS.

Great news! You are eligible for CCS.

Who is going to help you work on your goals? Time to develop your Recovery Team.

How are you going to reach your goals? Let's develop a Recovery Plan.

Your CCS services start.

Screening and Assessment

Eligibility for CCS is determined by a screening process. When you first sign up to participate in CCS, someone will interview you and ask questions about your life history, areas you would like to see change, and what you need support with. After you complete the interview, the interviewer will take the information you provided and enter it into a required state form to determine whether or not you are eligible for CCS services. If for some reason you are not found eligible for CCS, someone will assist you with finding another type of support that you do qualify for.

Once you are enrolled in CCS, every year your care coordinator will need to repeat this screening process to make sure that you are still eligible for CCS.

Service Planning

Once you are found eligible for CCS services, you are officially enrolled in the program and can select the CCS care coordination agency you would like to work with. Your CCS care coordinator will assist you in developing a team of individuals that will help you determine your goals and what types of support you need to reach those goals. The team you develop can consist of treatment providers, friends, family and anyone else you view as being a significant support for you. Members of your recovery team can be added or removed at any time. As a CCS consumer, you are viewed as the expert in your life. You are the center of your recovery team, and everyone else is there to support you. It is important to remember, that you have 30 days from the date you sign up for CCS, to develop your first recovery plan.

Your CCS plan can be updated and changed as frequently as you would like it to be. Please be aware that it is required for your plan to be completely reviewed and updated at least one time every six months.

Service Facilitation

Your care coordinator helps to monitor and coordinate the services on your recovery plan. Your care coordinator will meet with you regularly to check in and see how things are going. They will also work with you to identify any changes that need to be made to better support you.

Services your care coordinator can provide, but are not limited to, include: supporting you, your family or other natural supports in advocating for your needs and obtaining necessary services to help you meet your basic necessities. For example helping you find medical, dental, clothing, food, legal, financial, social and/or housing resources.

Diagnostic Evaluation

If you need additional testing to help you gain a better understanding of what may be causing some of the symptoms and/or issues you are experiencing, CCS can help you get the testing you need. Covered evaluations under this category include, but are not limited to: neuropsychological testing, occupational therapy evaluations, health assessments (provided by a qualified RN), etc.

CCS does not cover testing related to autism, developmental disabilities, or learning disabilities.

Medication Management

Prescriber Services (provided by a psychiatrist or Advanced Nurse Prescriber)

CCS prescribers help to diagnosis and treat psychiatric symptoms and/or behaviors that impact your ability to successfully reach your goals. If you or a member of your recovery team feel that medications may be helpful in reducing the symptoms you are experiencing, a prescriber may work with you to explore what medications are available for you to take. Your prescriber can help you develop strategies to support you in taking your medications, increase your understanding of the medications you are taking and the symptoms they are intended to treat, and improve your ability to identify potential medication side effects. Your CCS prescriber will need to meet with you on a regular basis in order to monitor the effectiveness of your treatment and watch for changes in your symptoms. It is encouraged, that if you have any concerns related to your medications, that you express them to your prescriber as soon as possible.

IMPORTANT: If you have a current prescriber that you like working with, and they are not in the CCS network, you CAN continue to see this provider and participate in CCS.

Non-Prescriber Services

Providers that do not directly prescribe medications can also assist you with medication management. Services that fall under the non-prescriber category include: developing strategies to support you with taking your medications as prescribed (i.e. reminding you to take medications, supporting you with setting up your medication boxes, etc.), working to increase your understanding of the medications you are taking and the symptoms they are intended to treat, and monitoring changes in your symptoms and tolerance to side effects.

Physical Health Monitoring

If you have a medical condition (i.e. diabetes, heart related issues, breathing disorders, etc.) that is difficult to manage due to your mental health and/or substance abuse, someone can assist you in learning about your medical condition(s) and how to better manage your physical health.

Services may include assisting and training you and/or your natural supports to: identify symptoms of physical health conditions, monitor physical health medications and treatments, and develop other skills that will help monitor and manage your physical health.

Peer Support

Peer Support services can offer a wide range of supports to assist you and your family in better understanding and coping with a mental health and/or substance abuse condition. Peer Support Specialists have personal experience living with a mental health and/or substance abuse issue. When working with a peer support specialist, they can share with you their own journey and strategies that have supported them in being successful within their own recovery.

A Peer Support Specialist can support you in navigating systems of care with dignity and without trauma, access available resources, develop skills that will help you reach your goals, and offer you a therapeutic relationship with a peer that is equal and mutually empowering.

Individual Skill Development Enhancement

Individual skill development and enhancement is a service category that offers a wide range of supports. Services that fall under this category include improving your ability to: advocate for your needs, communicate better with others, problem solving, decision-making, managing your emotions, resolving conflict, developing natural support systems, and addressing any other social needs you may have.

Another focus of this service category is to work on developing skills that will improve your ability to take care of yourself and others. This can include: learning strategies to help you improve your personal cares (hygiene, laundry etc,), taking care of your home, managing your finances, riding the bus and/or accessing other forms of transportation, shopping, parenting, employment and education related skill development (if offered by anyone that is not an approved Individual Placement and Support (IPS)- Supported Employment provider-see Employment Related Skill Training section for details) and any other specific daily living needs you may have.

Individual skill development is available individually or within a group setting.

Employment – Related Skill Training

Your care coordinator can always assist you in looking for work, enrolling in education programs, developing employment and education related skills and/or connecting to employment resources like the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR) or other training programs. These types of services fall under different areas on the service array.

For CCS, Employment Related Skill Training is strictly offered by agencies that are using specialized, effective models of supported employment. It is widely understood that employment often plays an important role in one's recovery. As a result, Milwaukee County's CCS program has adopted the use of the Individual Placement and Support (IPS) Supported Employment model. IPS requires an employment specialist to be a part of your care coordination team. If you decide that you would like to work on employment and/or education related goals, the employment specialist can work with you, your care coordinator, and anyone else you identify on the recovery team to support you in finding and keeping a job (or participating in an education program). The focus of this approach is get people working in the general workforce, doing jobs that they both enjoy and want to do, rather than working in sheltered workshops and in positions that are paid less than average wages. In addition, this model allows for the employment specialist to provide ongoing supports (as needed) to help you keep your job as long as you feel it is necessary.

Services may include but are not limited to: employment and education related assessments; assistance in accessing or participating in educational and employment related services; education about appropriate job-related behaviors; assistance with job preparation activities such as personal hygiene, clothing, and transportation; onsite employment evaluation and feedback sessions to identify and manage work-related symptoms; assistance with work-related crises; and individual therapeutic support.

IMPORTANT: Milwaukee County is currently piloting the IPS model within two CCS care coordination teams (Alternatives in Psychological Consultation and La Causa). There are plans to expand and offer IPS services through other CCS care coordination teams in 2016.

Individual and/or Family Psychoeducation

Psychoeducation services include providing: education and informational resources, emotional and social support, skills training, problems solving, and guidance related to managing your mental health and/or substance abuse condition.

Psychoeducation may be provided individually or in a group setting to you, your family and/or natural supports. Psychoeducation is not psychotherapy.

Family psychoeducation must be provided for your direct benefit and with your consent. Consultation to family members for treatment of their issues, not related to yours, aren't included as part of family psychoeducation.

Wellness Management/ Recovery Support Services

Wellness management and recovery services are intended to empower you to manage your mental health and/or substance abuse condition, engage you in treatment, help you develop your own goals, and teach you the knowledge and skills necessary to make informed treatment decisions.

Services include: psychoeducation; learning strategies to modify your behaviors; relapse prevention; development of a recovery action plan; recovery and/or resilience training; development of treatment strategies; social support building; and coping skills development. This service includes alternative therapies like yoga, massage therapy, etc.

Psychotherapy

Psychotherapy is a form of "talk therapy" intended to support you in the achievement of your recovery goals and ultimately help you to improve your quality of life, enhance your satisfaction in relationships, and improve your participation and performance in both work and leisure activities

Psychotherapists can diagnose and treat mental, emotional, and/or behavioral disorders, conditions, or addictions by applying the use of established treatment approaches. The goal of psychotherapy is to support individuals in modifying their behaviors, thoughts, emotions, and other personal characteristics, which may be impact their ability to function. Psychotherapy may be provided in an individual or group setting.

IMPORTANT: While you are enrolled in CCS, if you would like psychotherapy services, you are required to see a CCS approved therapist.

Substance Abuse Treatment

Substance abuse treatment services include day treatment and outpatient substance abuse counseling. Substance abuse treatment services can be provided individually or in a group setting.

The CCS program does not cover Operating While Intoxicated assessments, urine analysis and drug screening, detoxification services, medically managed inpatient treatment services, or narcotic treatment services (opioid treatment programs). Some of these services may be covered under Medicaid outside of the CCS program.

The program integrates behavioral and dialectal therapy with the use of eastern mindfulness practices. DBT has proven to be effective in enhancing social and life function, reducing suicidal behaviors, reducing substance abuse, improving engagement in therapy, and reducing hospitalizations.

Addiction & Recovery Counseling

Counseling focused on addressing and reducing symptoms related to addictions, while addressing the root causes of the addiction, and replacing it with healthy habits. Addiction is a recognized disease that affects the brain and its neurochemistry. The cycle of addiction is created by changes in brain chemistry and perpetuated by physiological, psychological, and emotional dependency. Addiction and recovery counseling focuses on interrupting the destructive cycle of seeking, using, recovering, and seeking again. In short interrupting the addiction cycle, and replacing it with healthy habits.

Art Therapy

Art therapy, sometimes called creative arts therapy or expressive arts therapy, encourages people to express and understand emotions through artistic expression and through the creative process. Art therapy provides the client-artist with critical insight into emotions, thoughts, and feelings.

Bilingual Counseling

Counseling provided by a therapist fluent in two or more languages.

The counselor and client work together to define and discuss personal issues and to reach mutually agreed upon goals. Addressing a range of issues such as: Depression, anxiety (panic attacks, test anxiety, social anxiety, obsessive compulsive disorders), eating disorders, relationship difficulties, family conflict, grief and loss, self- esteem, sexuality, substance abuse, sexual assault/trauma, anger management.

Cognitive Behavior Therapy (CBT)

Cognitive behavioral therapy is a counseling approach that aims to teach the person new skills on how to solve problems concerning dysfunctional emotions, behaviors and cognitions through a goal-oriented, systematic procedure.

Cognitive Therapy

Cognitive therapy addresses depression and other emotional challenges, by identifying troubled thinking, behavior, and emotional responses.

Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT)

Dialectical behavior therapy (DBT) treatment is a cognitive-behavioral approach that emphasizes the interrelation of social factors and individuals thought and behavior. The theory behind the approach is that some people are prone to react in a more intense and out-of-the-ordinary manner toward certain emotional situations, primarily those found in romantic, family and friend relationships.

EMDR Therapy

Eye movement desensitization and reprocessing (EMDR) is a therapy in which the patient recalls a traumatic event while simultaneously undergoing bilateral stimulation that can consist of moving the eyes from side to side, vibrations or tapping movements on different sides of the body, or tones delivered through one ear, then the other, via headphones. The goal of EMDR therapy is to process these distressing memories, reducing their lingering influence and allowing clients to develop more adaptive coping mechanisms

Equine (Horse) Assisted Therapy

Equine Assisted Therapy (EAT) is the practice of using horses for emotional growth. Participants in therapy use feelings, behaviors, and patterns to better understand the horse and themselves. The field of using horses for therapy is new and growing rapidly. It has been proven to be very effective in building confidence, improving communication and giving personal insights to participants involved with equine assisted therapy.

Family Counseling

Works with families and couples as a whole system, to nurture change and development. It tends to focus on change in terms of the interactions between family members. It emphasizes family relationships as an important factor in psychological health.

Group Counseling

Group therapy is a type of counseling that involves one or more therapists working with 6-10 people at the same time. Group therapy is sometimes used alone, but it is also commonly integrated into a comprehensive treatment plan that also includes individual therapy.

Individual Counseling

Individual counseling is an opportunity to talk confidentially with a counselor about personal concerns and to facilitate personal growth. The counselor and client work together to define and discuss personal issues and to reach mutually agreed upon goals. Addressing a range of issues such as: Depression, anxiety (panic attacks, test anxiety, social anxiety, obsessive compulsive disorders), eating disorders, relationship difficulties, family conflict, grief and loss, self-esteem, sexuality, substance abuse, sexual assault/trauma, anger management.

Major Mental Illness

Major mental illnesses include major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), panic disorder, post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and borderline personality disorder. The good news about mental illness is that recovery is possible.

Marriage Counseling

Marriage counseling is a type of therapy for a married couple or established couple that assists in resolving problems in the relationship. Typically, two people attend counseling sessions together to discuss specific issues. Marriage counseling helps couples learn to deal more effectively with problems, and can help prevent problems from becoming more serious. Research shows that marriage counseling, when effective, tends to improve a person's physical as well as mental health, in addition to improving the relationship.

Mindful-Based Cognitive Therapy (MBCT)

Mindfulness-Based Cognitive Therapy (MBCT) is designed to help people who suffer repeated bouts of depression and chronic unhappiness. It combines the ideas of cognitive therapy with meditative practices and attitudes based on the cultivation of mindfulness. The heart of this work lies in becoming acquainted with the modes of mind that often characterize mood disorders while simultaneously learning to develop a new relationship to them.

Mindfulness Therapy

'Mindfulness' is a common translation of a term from Buddhist psychology that means 'awareness' or 'bare attention'. It is frequently used to refer to a way of paying attention that is sensitive, accepting and independent of any thoughts that may be present. Mindfulness is the antithesis of mental habits in which the mind is on 'automatic pilot' where, most experiences pass by completely unrecognized. Mindfulness therapy encourages clients to focus on their breathing and their body, in order to notice but not judge their thoughts and to generally live in the moment.

Music Therapy

Music therapy is an allied health profession and one of the expressive therapies, consisting of an interpersonal process in which a trained music therapist uses music and all of its facets--physical, emotional, mental, social, aesthetic, and spiritual--to help clients to improve or maintain their health. Music therapists primarily help clients improve their health across various domains (e.g., cognitive functioning, motor skills, emotional and affective development, behavior and social skills, and quality of life) by using music experiences (e.g., free improvisation, singing, songwriting, listening to and discussing music, moving to music) to achieve treatment goals and objectives.

Play Therapy

Play therapy is a form of counseling (or therapy) by which licensed mental health professionals use play-based models and techniques to better communicate with and help clients, especially children, achieve optimal mental health.

Psychodynamic Therapy

Psychodynamic therapy, also known as insight-oriented therapy, focuses on unconscious processes as they are manifested in a person's present behavior. The goals of psychodynamic therapy are a client's self-awareness and understanding of the influence of the past on present behavior.

Solution Focused Brief Therapy (SFBT)

Solution Focused Brief Therapy (SFBT) focuses on what clients want to achieve through therapy rather than on the problem(s) that made them seek help. The approach does not focus on the past, but instead, focuses on the present and future. The therapist or counselor uses respectful curiosity to invite the client to envision their preferred future and then therapist and client start attending to any moves towards it, whether these are small increments or large changes.

Traumatic Brain Injury - Counseling

Counseling of the traumatic brain injury (TBI) population requires that the counselor be very experienced in cognitive retraining of brain injured persons. Typically, brain functions (thinking skills) are the primary tool used in counseling for learning new techniques, for introspective reflection, and for conceptualization. However, the brain injured person usually demonstrates signature behaviors that interfere with the process of learning. The signature behaviors of TBI are: impulsivity, poor judgement, misperception of the intentions & actions of others, slow information processing, memory disturbances, and irritability. When counseled in the context of the signature behaviors, the TBI client can benefit from counseling as an adjunct to the entire rehabilitation process.

Trauma-focused cognitive behavioral therapy (TF-CBT)

Trauma-focused cognitive behavioral therapy (TF-CBT) - is an evidence-based treatment approach shown to help children, adolescents, and their caregivers overcome trauma related difficulties. It is designed to reduce negative emotional and behavioral responses following child sexual abuse, domestic violence, traumatic loss, and other traumatic events. The treatment--based on learning and cognitive theories--addresses distorted beliefs and attributions related to the abuse and provides a supportive environment in which children are encouraged to talk about their traumatic experience. TF-CBT also helps parents who were not abusive to cope effectively with their own emotional distress and develop skills that support their children.
