

Living with Urban Coyotes

Starting in September and through January, young coyotes will begin dispersing from their natal (birth) territory in search of a new territory. As a result, people may begin to see these young and potentially inexperienced coyotes exploring new areas, including residential ones. This brings with it the potential for interactions between coyotes and pets.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WDNR) and Milwaukee County Department of Parks, Recreation & Culture (DPRC) will be hosting several programs throughout the fall to discuss urban coyote ecology, human-coyote conflict and behavior modification, as well as proactive coyote management. Please join us for one of the programs listed below, no registration is required.
