Department of Health and Human Services

Report to the Community
Dear Friends,

I am extremely proud to share with you the Milwaukee County Department of Health and Human Services 2015 Report to the Community. This year, we are making a few changes that we believe will help our community see how much we are accomplishing... and how many lives we are improving.

You will notice we have changed the name of the report to reflect our commitment to delivering a positive and strong community impact. As we highlight goals and outcomes for each of our divisions, we are also honored to share the inspiring journeys of individuals and families we worked with. Their stories are why we do the work we do, why we work so hard to fulfill our mission to enhance the quality of life for individuals who need support living healthy, independent, and safe lives within our community.

Throughout 2015, DHHS reached many outstanding milestones that we are honored to share with you.

- At Behavioral Health, we closed our final long term care unit and expanded our support for community based behavioral healthcare.
- With partners across business, government and nonprofit, our Housing Division launched Housing First, an initiative to end chronic homelessness in Milwaukee County by 2018. We have already seen a 70% reduction in chronic homelessness.
- Disabilities Services began a tremendous program to provide employment opportunities for all exiting high school students with a disability in Milwaukee County.
- Delinquency and Court Services accelerated our juvenile justice reforms while advancing data-driven decision making tools and evidence-based practices that are yielding better outcomes and improved public safety.

In addition, we took important steps internally at DHHS. Our department launched a workforce strategic planning effort and developed an employee-led engagement program to ensure we recognize our outstanding employees. And our Energy Assistance team stepped outside of the box to close a significant gap between the number of Milwaukee County residents eligible for this important benefit and the number who apply each year.

I am extremely proud of our work in 2015 and humbled by the tremendous team we have at DHHS. Please enjoy the Milwaukee County Department of Health and Human Services 2015 Report to the Community.

Regards,

Héctor Colón, MS, OT

The DHHS Strategic Plan establishes a master framework to guide staff in how they will work together as a department and set priorities during a three year period (2015-2017) to make the department a stronger organization to fulfill its mission of enhancing the quality of life for individuals who need support living healthy, independent and safe lives within our community. The Strategic Plan focuses largely on internal practices that will allow DHHS to strengthen operations and business practices, set priorities, focus resources, and align staff and stakeholders toward common goals that will increase efficiency, effectiveness, accountability, quality, communications, and synergy. It also asks “how” and outlines what staff plan to do to reach the next stage of performance excellence. The Strategic Plan includes 5 goal areas which are listed below.

From these survey results, divisions identified priority areas for improvements “recognition,” “trust and communication,” and “growth and development.” Then, workgroups were created to brainstorm and develop action plans to make improvements in these areas for DHHS employees. These workgroups’ facilitators came together to share ideas, challenges and proposed solutions and are now working to implement new best practices in each division. We are excited to see improved employee survey results in 2016!

Strategic Planning Highlight: Green Committee

Project: Create a DHHS Green Committee to cultivate a department-wide culture that will support a commitment to sustainable energy conservation, waste reduction, and recycling

The Green Committee’s inaugural field trip was touring the Milwaukee Recycling Facility! The committee met with director Joe Wilson of Keep Greater Milwaukee Beautiful to learn about recycling resources in our community. Did you know? The new recycling facility in the Menomonee Valley processes single sort recyclables using state-of-the-art recycling equipment!

“The tour of the recycling facility was more than expected. Seeing the material recycling facility was unbelievable, the jobs it can do and the size of the machine. I think we are making strides on the recycling process,” said DHHS recycling partner Officer Mark Ratzmann of the Milwaukee County House of Correction.

DHHS is proud to continue to work on making our workplace more sustainable for our environment!
Housing Division

The Housing Division serves as the recognized public housing authority for Milwaukee County. This year, we supported approximately 1,700 families and exhausted a ten-year-old waiting list.

Program Areas and Accomplishments:

CDBG and HOME | Milwaukee County’s comprehensive CDBG planning process provides a framework for addressing identified housing and community development needs within the Consolidated Plan area. This program serves thousands of citizens with various housing, public service, and economic development projects. This year the program launched a New Cooperation Agreement with suburbs with strong fair housing language.

My Home and Safe Haven | A safe haven is a form of supportive housing that serves hard-to-reach homeless persons with severe mental illness who are on the street and have been unable or unwilling to participate in supportive services. Safe Havens provide more than shelter. They close the gap in housing and services available for those homeless individuals who, perhaps because of their illness, have refused help or have been denied or removed from other homeless program. This year, this program served over 550 homeless individuals and families, providing an additional 50 homeless clients with new case management partnerships.

Outreach Services (Housing First) | Housing First is based on the concept that a homeless individual or household’s first and primary need is to obtain stable housing. Other issues that affect the household are addressed once housing is obtained. National data shows this model provides very successful outcomes and dramatically reduces public service costs. This year we began our plan to end chronic homelessness in Milwaukee County by using the Housing First model. We served over 100 chronically homeless individuals and families living on the street or in homeless shelters. They now have their own homes, many for the first time in decades.

Special Needs Housing | Milwaukee County provides housing subsidies and services for those that have supportive housing needs. This program manages over 300 units of supportive housing with a focus on consumers served by our own Behavioral Health Division. This year, we completed programmatic changes to Pathways to Permanent Housing and conducted consumer satisfaction surveys in supportive housing units.

Section 8 Rental Assistance | The Section 8 Housing Choice Voucher Program is federally funded by the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD). This program is designed to accommodate very low income families and individuals with rent assistance for decent, safe, and sanitary housing provided by private owners and rental agents.

Mission: The Housing Division strives to provide Milwaukee County residents in need with a safety net, decent and safe affordable housing, and a connection to opportunities improving the quality of life using available funding sources in the most equitable and efficient manner.

Division Administrator: James Mathy

Partner Highlight: HONC

More commonly know as “HONC,” the Homeless Outreach Nursing Center partners with Department of Health and Human Services Housing Division, Community Advocates, and the St. James meal program to serve homeless individuals and those on fixed incomes who need additional resources. The organization’s goal is to provide a place to be warm and welcomed with a meal and medical support.
After losing her husband, Sandy, mother of five, spent much of her adult life moving around and staying with family as she worked as a waitress or housekeeper. When her dollars diminished and she found herself unable to work because of failing health, she turned to living on the streets.

Sandy used to sleep in an alley behind the Hampton Hotel in Downtown Milwaukee. Sandy found a group of nine others living on the street who became her second “family.” They watched over each other and the few suitcases that held their belongings. Her story changed drastically after she met Eric Collins-Dyke and Stephanie Nowak of the Housing Division. They told Sandy about Housing First. This gave Sandy hope to go “home.”

One day, one of her friends left the alley because he had received housing through Housing First. He persuaded her to consider the opportunity as well. Stephanie and Eric worked with Sandy to help her and every member of that group out of homelessness.

Out of habit, she slept on the floor the first few nights. Little by little, Sandy began to feeling more comfortable in her new “pad,” as she refers to it. Now she enjoys decorating, cooking meals, doing puzzles, and coloring – especially pictures of princesses.

Recently, Sandy found out they were hiring at a new Taco Bell just up the road from where she used to sleep in that downtown alley. Her case manager, Jasmine, helped her to get the proper clothing and Sandy was hired. Now she works six days a week. She loves her job.

She still stays connected to her past, visiting her friends downtown, stopping for lunch at a soup kitchen and visiting the library, but at the end of the day, Sandy enjoys coming home – to her home.

Now, she is reconnecting with her family. She says that her grandchildren are the most important thing in the world to her. Her main goal is to see them again and hug them.
Meet Luke

The Housing Division prides itself on its data-driven, mission-focused work. At the heart of this work are employees like Luke. Luke Rosynek is the Program Evaluator for the Milwaukee County Housing Division.

In this role, Luke ensures that data is collected accurately for program evaluation, quality and performance improvement activities, and housing related research studies. Luke’s team uses this data to evaluate trends in Milwaukee County to better serve some of our County’s residents who are chronically homeless.

When Luke is not in the office crunching numbers, he is out with the rest of his team in outreach vans, searching the streets, alleys and bridges of Milwaukee, looking for more individuals to help with Housing Division Services and provide them with needed amenities.

Luke is excited about engaging with new Housing First residents and giving them opportunities for social connection, employment, and creative outlets. He works closely with the new Resident Advisory Council and updates the program website (housingfirstmilwaukee.com).

Luke also carries this selfless attitude among his staff, continually promoting professional development of his staff, partnering with many organizations to provide his staff with education on management and supervision, research, evaluation, mental health, criminal justice, adult mental health provider networks, and AODA topics.

Areas and Accomplishments:

Administration Support | Administration/Support Administration and support functions provide policy direction, programmatic and fiscal management, staff supervision, research and analysis of data, budget development, procurement of services, development of cooperative alliances with outside agencies, and adherence to state and federal laws. Included is development and implementation of non-judicial operational procedures of intake, detention, probation supervision and direct community-based services.

Detention Facility | The Detention Center provides secure custodial care of detained youth. In addition to providing a safe and secure environment, the center provides initial intake screening, education, sanctions, short-term mental health services, dental care, basic health screens and medical followup, an after school educational program, the Milwaukee County Accountability Program (MCAP) and other short-term services as necessary.

Intake & Probation Services | The Division provides statutorily required screening, assessment, and supervision of youth referred for delinquency and juveniles in need of protection and service matters. While not inclusive, these functions coordinate the provision of direct services, monitor and respond to court compliance, and provide other services for the court incorporating research-based and data-driven strategies to guide our work and services.

Purchase Services/Partnerships | The Division oversees and contracts for a variety of direct and support services purchased through various contracts and a network of service providers. Target areas include prevention, diversion, supervision support services, alternative education settings, out-of-home placements, targeted supervision (intensive), and re-entry support. DCSD provides custody intake, court intake, post dispositional supervision and services and also operates a 120-bed juvenile detention facility and serves juveniles that are typically between the ages of 10 and 17 years of age.

The job of a juvenile corrections officer is tough. Each day, Ramon Salinas and Tanya Roberson deal with youth during the most difficult time of their lives - incarceration. These kids come to the juvenile justice center not on their own accord. They have been charged with a crime, at a young age - between 10 and 17-years-old, and are sent to this facility.

When youth are admitted to the detention center, they are paired with an intake officer who coordinates their medical exam, completes their paperwork, gathers their belongings, issues them a new set of clothes, as well as their “pod” of youth and cell assignment for the next 7-10 days (on average).

Youth also receive a YASI (Youth Assessment and Screening Instrument), a tool to determine a youth’s risk level to appropriately place them in programs that will deliver the best projected outcomes. The goal? Prevent youth from re-offending.

Once placed, Tanya and Ramon become a daily presence in the youths’ experience, from breakfast to bedtime. Personally, Tanya and Ramon consider one of their primary roles to be that of a mentor. They set a good example for the youth, finding the right balance between compassion and discipline throughout the days’ activities.

Statistically, many of these youth will return and occupy one of the facilities’ 120 beds. But, Tanya and Ramon continue to stay positive, giving these youth the opportunity to get a second change and become contributing citizens to our community.
Juvenile Detention Alternative Initiative: The purpose of JDAI is to safely reduce the reliance on secure detention for delinquent youth pending disposition through the use of alternative programming/services. Since 2013, we have decreased the use of detention by about 25%. Referrals to DCSD are down by about 13% compared to 2013.

Juvenile Justice Reform and Reinvestment Initiative: JJJRI is a collaboration with Georgetown University, Vanderbilt University and the Urban Institute to realign service implementation and reinvest more resources at the early stages to prevent recidivism and deeper involvement in the juvenile justice system. Wraparound is a critical partner in the quality assurance and program improvement components of the initiative.

JJJRI highlights:
• DCSD Quality Assurance department implemented. Standardized policies and procedures updated and implemented
• Developed the Continuous Quality Improvement (CQI) – collaborative with Wraparound and DCSD community providers
• Participating in the NIATx and STARWI program

2015 Key Statistics
Since 2010...
• 22.7% drop in Juvenile Justice Referrals - Juvenile Justice Referrals includes delinquency and Juveniles in need of Protection and Services referrals received by the Delinquency and Court Services Division.
• 31.7% drop in total admissions to Detention
• 28.3% drop in Department of Corrections Admissions

DCSD provides custody intake, court intake, post dispositional supervision and services and also operates a 120 bed juvenile detention facility and serves juveniles that are typically between the ages of 10 and 17 years of age.

DCSD collaborates with many juvenile justice stakeholders, both government and private, including the Division of Milwaukee Child Protective Services for dual status youth and Wraparound Milwaukee, as one-third of our youth on supervision are also enrolled in Wraparound.

In 2015, DCSD implemented the Detention Risk Assessment Instrument (DRAI), collaborated with community partners for the Power of Harambee Youth Employment Program and re-design of the former day treatment program, now called the Juvenile Education Treatment Initiative (JETI).

Initiative Highlight
Keep more families together by helping delinquent youth receive support and treatment that meets their needs. Reduce the reliance on out of home placement.

People Serviced in 2015
Rothel is a 17-year-old student at Bradley Tech High School, pursuing dreams of becoming a businessman. But it hasn’t always been like this for Rothel. Rothel had a challenging past. He committed several crimes, including “driving without owner’s consent,” “armed robbery,” and “party to a crime.”

The Delinquency and Court Services Detention Center is where he first learned that this path was not set for him and that he controlled his next actions and in turn, his future.

Through this experience, Rothel was introduced to several organizations and people that motivated him to get started on a path to a positive future.

Milwaukee County Accountability Program (MCAP) - Rothel’s judge offered him a spot in the MCAP program as an alternative to placement at Lincoln Hills School for Boys.

This program provided support and guidance and taught Rothel how to take responsibility for his actions and his life. With a smile, he describes his mentors from the program with a sense of pride and family.

“They care about me. Derron worked with me one-on-one to change my mind, getting me to look at the bigger picture and make a life plan. You have purpose if you can see a bigger picture.”

Virtual Academy - Through a partnership with the Wauwatosa School District, Rothel was able to attend virtual classes during probation. He learned he has a love for math, science and history, especially economics and geometry. He plans to apply this knowledge to owning his own business some day.

First, he plans to attend college, likely at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee, and may even want to get involved on the basketball team.

Running Rebels - Running Rebels Community Organization provides programming for high risk youth, including mentoring, tutoring, anger management, daily living skills, an afterschool and summer Safe and Sound program and more.

Rothel enjoyed participating in the recreation programs, meeting new friends through basketball. He is appreciative for this alternate option to stay out of trouble.

Power of Harambee Program - This program is an employment readiness program developed in collaboration with DCSD to provide curriculum on professional development, financial literacy and building communication skills before placing youth in employment at McDonald’s.

Through this program Rothel was able to get on-the-job training, learned how to budget, and even got his bank cards. Now, he’s a crew member at McDonalds and is excited to learn more about the world of business.

Rothel is set to continue on a positive path and is looking forward to graduating this spring and starting his journey to accomplish his dreams out in the world. Now he understands the alternative to confinement in a jail cell for years of his life.

“I’m just happy. I could have been somewhere else, but instead I’m here.”

Penfield Children’s Center

Penfield Children’s Center is full of colors and crayons, balls and books, playgrounds, puzzles and more. Take a closer look and you see wheelchairs, oxygen tubes, medical tape and other items that you often don’t associate with playtime. All of these contribute to the “Birth-to-Three program” to provide speech, physical and occupational therapy to infants and toddlers (up to three-years-old) with developmental delays or disabilities.

It starts with a service coordinator, like Meghan. Meghan works with parents, like Tamika, to identify their child’s areas of development and helps create individualized plans for their growth. Currently, Meghan is working with Tamika and her baby Dakhar, who has some developmental delays.

Each session, Meghan works with Tamika to evaluate Dakhar’s progress, coach Tamika on strategies to promote learning and development in the home and connects the family with the right therapists to provide the appropriate support for Dakhar. Meghan even accompanies Tamika and Dakhar to appointments when needed. At six-months old, Tamika is already noticing improvements in Dakhar’s development.

Tamika considers Meghan not only a friend, but part of the family. Not only has she assisted Tamika with supporting Dakhar’s development, she always was involved when older brother, Demine was born. Since graduating from Penfield, Demine is now a thriving big brother, involved in his brother’s growth.

“Meghan has become a backbone for our family,” said Tamika. “I’m not on my own. I have someone supporting me every step of the way.”

Nichelle’s Family

Nichelle reached out to the Disabilities Services Division for any support they could give. DSD answered, assigning a case manager to Nichelle, who walked her through the process of finding and applying for the services she needed to care for her kids. Nichelle immediately enrolled in the waiver program and signed the family up for respite care to have extra support around the house with caregiving, cleaning and more.

Nichelle received emergency assistance in finding the right home to cater to family’s needs, support in purchasing the right beds for her children, a washing machine to help with the children’s incontinence, wipes for cleaning, safety locks for drawers and doors, wipes for the kids to stay clean, adaptive learning devices and sensory items to assist with daily living and learning.

Now, Jeremiah is showing success in grade school and is one of the most talkative in his class, especially when it comes to superheroes. Terianna is now seven and has begun to crawl – a milestone! She also loves the colors and music of the Little Mermaid.

“We’re the happiest we’ve ever been!” said Nichelle. “These services are a blessing.”

Disabilities Services Division was able to ease the burden of parenting for Nichelle, giving her the tools to sustain her family and keep her kids at home and happy.
Ana spent much time as a young adult in and out of the hospital. She was weak, her vision was blurred, and she experienced spasms in her muscles to a point where some of her body would be paralyzed at times. While doctors tried to diagnose her mysterious symptoms, she felt she was without a support system living in Puerto Rico, miles away from her family who relocated to the United States.

When her symptoms worsened, Ana’s sister moved her and her children to the United States for better care. Ana’s sister took her to see a medical specialist, who diagnosed her with Devic’s disease, an immunological disorder often confused with multiple sclerosis due to similar effects on the body.

Then, her treatment began. At Aurora Sinai Medical Center, she was referred to in-home care. However, speaking no English, Ana had difficulties obtaining the help she needed for her and her children (nine-year-old daughter and seven-year-old son) to live a quality life.

One day Ana’s rehab nurses told her about the County’s disability program and how she could receive support. She was connected with Maritza, a disability benefit specialist (and fluent in Spanish!) who became her biggest advocate, helping her obtain the benefits she needed.

Maritza educated Ana on the public services available to her. She ensured Ana received Social Security Insurance. She helped her fill out medical forms and communicate with her doctor about treatment. On days when Ana was wheelchair bound, Maritza helped accompany her to appointments.

Martiza gave Ana choices to allow her function at her full capacity so her family could lead the highest quality life possible.

“Maritza did everything for me, I am so appreciative,” said Ana.

Management & Support Services

Meet Steve

Steve Ellison, RN is the Nurse Manager of the Intensive Treatment Unit at the Behavioral Health Division. Steve came to BHD with extensive experience working in public service, previously as a nurse and supervisor at the Milwaukee County Jail and House of Correction. He is now celebrating more than five years as a nurse manager at BHD.

At BHD, Steve works diligently at promoting patient centered care and teamwork. Under Steve's leadership, he formed a workgroup to develop and implement an innovative Certified Nurses Assistant rounding model with the purpose of enhancing patient care and communication. The result of this has been extremely positive. Now, all adult inpatient units have implemented this new rounding practice.

Steve continues to forge ahead in promoting interdisciplinary teamwork. He heads up a multidisciplinary teamwork committee whose vision is centered on promoting patient centered, trauma informed, and recovery-oriented care.

“I believe in greeting each patient on the unit and being available to each patient... Listening is the key to meeting patient’s needs and problem solving.”

Through Steve's initiative, he engaged unit staff in the process of implementing an Employee of the Month program and a "Kudos Korner" Bulletin Board in which staff recognize the positive efforts of their peers!

When asked what motivates him, Steve, without hesitation states, “I fell in love with the patients, mission, challenges and opportunities at BHD.” Steve adds that he feels inspired by the doctors, nurses, social workers and nursing assistant. “They opened my eyes to what exceptional patient care is and how important teamwork is in the work we do here.”

Meet Cory

On Friday, January 11, 2016 the Milwaukee County Behavioral Health Division quietly ushered in the end of an era. Four individuals living at Rehab Central, the final long-term care unit at the Mental Health Complex, left for their new homes in the community. This transition to community-based care ended more than a century of long-term care for people with mental illness on the Milwaukee County grounds.

The vision and commitment of countless people around the state made this possible. The process was comprehensive and collaborative, with a transition team that included BHD staff, social workers, attorneys, law enforcement, advocates and others meeting twice per month for nearly two years to develop thoughtful, individualized transition plan for each resident. The team designed these plans around each resident’s needs, recovery goals and all laws. Innovative strategies led by BHD staff continue to monitor the progress of residents in community settings today - residents like Cory.

Cory Wells came to Hilltop in the summer of 2008. Diagnosed with Kleinfelter’s syndrome and bipolar disorder, Cory had struggled for years. He’d been in and out of several institutional settings. When Cory came to BHD, his father Dan says, he received good 1:1 care. But Cory got sick a lot in the institutional setting and frequently had pneumonia. When Cory was healthy enough to move, his new care team from Community Care, Inc. worked closely with the BHD team and his new group home to make the move a smooth one. Today, his caregiver at CCI says Cory is thriving.

“Cory is surrounded by professionals who care about him, understand his support needs and his goals,” said Cory’s caregiver. “Along with the team and the behavioral health coordinator at CCI we assist in ongoing management of his changing behavioral and health needs. Cory is very clever and always finds a way to let us know what he needs.”
The MUTT Team

It is not every day that a child faces a crisis - but if a crisis occurs, these youth and their families have help available.

The Mobile Urgent Treatment Team (MUTT) is comprised of individuals trained in trauma-informed care who provide 24/7 crisis intervention services and community supports for families caring for children who have complex behavioral health needs. This includes runaway situations, parent-child conflicts, emotional crisis, mental health incidences, and even children affected by violent crime.

When a crisis occurs, the MUTT team responds immediately by phone and are able to meet with the youth at home, school or at the scene of an incident. They provide face-to-face intervention, listening and providing guidance to youth and their families. They often follow-up by referring them to community services including short-term or ongoing counseling to stabilize a youth after an incident or prevent a high-risk youth from having a recurrent mental, emotional or behavioral crisis.

“After something bad happens a parent will ask ‘Are you ok,’” said Dr. Steven Dykstra a clinical psychologist at BHD. He continued “But in between the lines, what they really want to know is ‘are you happy?’” This team’s vision is that every child they encounter will someday answer ‘yes.’

Energy Assistance Overview

Wisconsin Home Energy Assistance Program

Milwaukee County oversees the local administration of the Wisconsin Home Energy Assistance Program (WHEAP) which is comprised of the federally funded Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) and state funded Public Benefits (PB) Energy Assistance Program.

The Energy Assistance program provides qualified Milwaukee County residents with a one-time annual payment to make energy (heating and electric) bills more affordable, keeping them safe and warm in the winter.

Last season we served about 60,000 households, but we know more than 175,000 Milwaukee County households may be eligible for energy assistance. Eligible residents are those under 60% of the state median income or around 200% of the Federal Poverty Level. It includes many people on fixed incomes or on Food Share, but mostly it includes average working people, trying to make ends meet. This showed us we needed to make more of our residents aware of this public service so they could reap the benefits.

So this year, we made it easier than ever to apply. We worked with our service partners Community Advocates and UMOS to provide residents with:

- The option to walk in one of our sites or schedule an appointment to sign up for energy assistance.
- The ability to schedule appointments online.
- Four main sites, two satellite sites and almost a hundred community sites across the County to be seen in their own neighborhood.
- A County wide call center and website for information and scheduling.

We also worked hard to get the word out and educate the community about the program and improvements.

We launched a campaign of billboards, bus ads and radio spots and interviews. This significantly improved our numbers and customer perceptions.

Ali and Maria

Ali and her family are just one of the thousands of households that benefited from the Energy Assistance Program this year. Maria, one of Community Advocate’s utility advocates at the James Lovell location, met with Ali to process her application. Ali chose to make her appointment through our call center, which allowed her to have all her paperwork completed in less than an hour.

Maria also provides bilingual application services at our seasonal site at the Robles Center, an outreach partnership with Hunger Task Force and provides 24 hour coverage for our furnace program, which repairs or replaces inoperable furnaces for homeowners on the Energy Assistance Program.

Impact 211 Overview

IMPACT 211 is a comprehensive information and referral hotline that provides a centralized access point for people in need during times of personal crisis or community disaster. This service is available 24 hours a day.

When people dial 2-1-1, they will hear a friendly voice on the other end, like Cami Bell’s.

Impact 2-1-1 and its employees, like Cami, act as an access point for people in need, connecting them with information and resources that can help them in whatever scenario they are encountering. Many of these services tie back to Milwaukee County’s Department of Health and Human Services and that we all do: finding housing, ending homelessness, help for addictions, services for special needs, and more.

We work closely with 2-1-1 to ensure they are up to date and aware of all of our services to best serve our community.

In fact, on below zero days, Cami says most of the calls she gets are for “no heat” situations or furnace repairs. Cami first works with them to troubleshoot, identifying the root of the issue, walking them through checking their circuit boxes and more. Then, if needed, she refers these people to our Energy Assistance partners, Community Advocates and UMOS to ensure their issues are taken care of on site.

We visited Cami at 2 p.m. on a Wednesday afternoon, and the call center had already received over 500 calls that day!
