Milwaukee County Mental Health Board approves contract with Universal Health Services

New Hospital for Acute Mental Health Care Expected in Two Years

Milwaukee, WI (Sept. 26, 2018) - Today the Milwaukee County Mental Health Board approved a contract with Universal Health Services (UHS) to become the provider of acute, inpatient mental health care for the service recipients of Milwaukee County Behavioral Health Division (BHD). UHS will construct and operate a new, freestanding 120-bed inpatient mental health facility to provide inpatient behavioral health services for adolescents, adults and older adults in Milwaukee County.

“Milwaukee County’s mission around behavioral health is to give individuals the best possible opportunities toward leading empowered, safe and healthy lives,” said Milwaukee County Executive Chris Abele. “Engaging with a provider who can address the range of health needs for individuals who need these services is part of creating a strong safety net for those who need care, as well as building up community-based services that allow individuals to manage mental health and addiction while staying connected to their community. The agreement with UHS is a key step in the transformation that we’ve led at BHD in the past seven years, and I’m excited to continue to move forward.”

Milwaukee County’s commitment to individuals with chronic mental health needs began more than 100 years ago with a hospital facility designed for more than 3,000 people. The Milwaukee County Mental Health Complex was built in 1978 with 900,000 square feet and 900 patient rooms. At the time, individuals with mental illness were expected to reside in the facility. In recent years, best practices in mental health care and related laws have changed. Collaborative reform efforts began nearly a decade ago when Milwaukee County started the redesign of its mental health system, moving to a community-based system of care that is less reliant on psychiatric inpatient admissions and emergency room visits.

Milwaukee County’s Mental Health Board launched a Request for Proposal (RFP) process in 2015 to identify a provider to assume the acute, inpatient care. The public process included more than two years of due diligence, multiple site visits, and was led by a diverse committee that represents the board members, community advocates and individuals who received care.

“The decision is part of a significant change in approach in how we treat people seeking help for mental health concerns,” said Mary Jo Meyers, director of the Milwaukee County Department of Health and Human Services. “The philosophy, evidence and laws regarding care for people with mental health needs are changing, and so are globally recognized best practices. We will be well-positioned to provide the up-to-date care that is needed to help support and serve people seeking help.”

UHS will build the new, state-of-the-art acute mental health hospital in Milwaukee County over the next two years. The UHS facility will be an independent hospital open to all members of the community, including the individuals treated at BHD's inpatient hospital today.

“Exceptional inpatient mental health care plays an important role in an individual's recovery,” said Michael Lappen, administrator for the Behavioral Health Division. “We welcome UHS to our community. As one of the leading providers of inpatient mental health care in the nation, UHS will introduce new best practices to our community, as well as increase the capacity of inpatient care so BHD can focus on community-based care.”

BHD will continue to ensure everyone in Milwaukee County has access to high-quality, patient-centered behavioral health services - no matter their severity of illness or ability to pay.
