
2019 ART EXHIBIT / PLACEMENT APPLICATION

SETTING

The Boerner Botanical Gardens and Arboretum are located on rolling hills created by glaciers as they passed through Milwaukee County's 640-acre Whitnall Park. Natural landforms were enhanced by the plans of County Landscape Architect Alfred L. Boerner. Today, native wetlands, ponds, and woodlands surround the Botanical Gardens.

Since the founding of the Botanical Gardens, public art has played an integral role. Local artists of the Depression-era WPA created original works. In more recent years, permanent outdoor installations have included "Passages" by Susan Falkman, "Woodland Nymph" butterfly bench by Marina Lee, "Abstract" by Michael E. Kimiotek, and "Sundial" by Richard Edelman.

We invite local Wisconsin artists inspired by nature to file an application to display their work in temporary exhibits. Smaller pieces may be shown in the three (3) Garden House Exhibit Room locked display cases (each measuring 92" w x 57.5" h x 8.25" d). Larger sculptural works may be placed at outdoor sites.

Admission to the Garden House Exhibit is included in regular Botanical Gardens admission. Admission is charged during the garden season, April through October.
